

Theory is when you know everything
but nothing works.

Practice is when everything works
but no one knows why.

Around here, theory and practice are combined:
nothing works and no one knows why.